BRIEFLY: The Immunization Coalition has announced for all Allentown School District children a two-week Immunization Blitz in August. All immunizations are free and offered at three health care locations in the city. “It is critical that ASD children have up-to-date immunizations; otherwise, they will not be able to attend school which starts September 5,” says Bobbi Malcolm, ASD Health Services Chair. The following immunizations will be available: DPT (for diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus); polio; measles, hepatitis B, mumps and rubella and chicken pox vaccinations. They are required for all students, including new kindergartners.
